1. The small Kaliningrad (Königsberg)-Continen Shipyard, which had been used previously only to repair tugs and river steamers, was enlarged during the war to cover an area of $3\frac{1}{2} \times 1$ kms. by the firm of Schichau, which then built parts for submarines and minesweepers there ("Teilbauwerft").
2. These yards suffered very little damage during the war and are now regarded as the largest shipyards working in the Baltic area. Dismantling has ceased, and the Soviets have been pushing the rebuilding of the yards. With the help of the undestroyed drawing office, the latest types of submarines and minesweepers are now being built there in large numbers.

3. The Soviets are trying at present to recruit former German Schichau technicians, employees, and workmen [redacted] for work at Kaliningrad. Polish firms working on Soviet orders are similarly trying to recruit personnel to rebuild the Schichau Yards at Danzig and Elbing. The majority of these technicians have refused Soviet offers, but a certain number of former Schichau employees have accepted and have left for East Prussia.
